

#296: KOREAN WAR BATTLES

Korean War Battles is an operational-level simulation of three engagements in 1950: the holding action at the Pusan Perimeter (August - September), the invasion at Inchon and subsequent battle to retake Seoul (September), and the withdrawal from the area of the Chosin Reservoir (December).

The games are two-player, but are easily adaptable for solitaire. The time and space scales vary from game to game, and units of maneuver are battalions, regiments and brigades, with occasional divisional-sized ones in some scenarios.
